

Final meeting for outgoing council

The 1988-89 version of Elk Point Town Council held their final meeting last Tuesday night, with their customary Monday meeting delayed due to the Thanksgiving holiday. Four of the seven Council members, Alvina Schuhmacher, Allan Frankiw, Steve Stepaniuk and Steve Shmyr, who were elected on Monday, October 20, 1988, were on hand as their three year term came to an end, along with Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, who replaced Byron Mann in late 1988. A fifth original member of the team, Marshall Kachmar, and Councillor Ed Buck, who filled a long vacant Council chair, originally held by Sandra Giffin, in last December's by-election, were not present for the meeting.

Also in attendance at the meeting were Elk Point Agricultural Society President Glenn Harms and Elk Point Minor Hockey Vice President

Reo Van Maarion, who made a presentation to Council in recognition of the assistance and support provided to Minor Hockey by the Town in staging last spring's Provincial Pee Wee 'C' Championship Tournament. The Town provided both funding and labor to help bring the A. G. Ross Arena up to the required standards for a tournament of this calibre, and thus helped to overcome Alberta Amateur Hockey Association reservations regarding the adequacy of Elk Point's facilities.

'It all started here,' Harms said. 'You were a very big part of our success.' Contributions such as that made by the Town made the Minor Hockey Association feel 'the whole town was behind us,' he added.

Mayor Kleeberger accepted a handsome engraved plaque from Van Maarion, and commented that 'the driving force [the Ag Society and Minor Hockey Association] was already in place—we just had to keep up the momentum' by contributing funds and labor to the project.

Harms also discussed the location for the Ag Society's proposed fairgrounds complex with Council. If the Ag Society goes ahead with plans to locate the fairgrounds north of Pan Canadian Petroleum on the east side of Highway 41, rezoning of that land would be required. An alternate site and the Ag Society's original choice is in Alberta Housing's north subdivision, north of Hilltop Motor Inn on the west side of the highway. The Administration was directed to prepare an estimate of raw land costs for 30 acres of Urban Reserve land in that area, for consideration by the Ag Society before a decision is made to rezone the other property.

Town's Efforts Praised...

Reo Van Maarion of the Elk Point Minor Hockey Association presents Mayor Bruce Kleeberger with a plaque honoring the Town's contributions of funding and labor toward preparations for hosting the Provincial Pee Wee 'C' Tournament last spring.

Amoco announces $6 million program

CALGARY--Amoco Canada Petroleum Company Ltd. today announced plans for a $6 million, 24-well drilling program for the Elk Point project, 12 kilometers south of the town of Elk Point.

"Amoco's current heavy oil activity emphasizes the strategic importance of phased economic development in order to position ourselves for future major thermal recovery projects," said Wayne Heth, division vice president for the northern and frontier division. "It also reflects Amoco's intention to continue heavy oil operations in the Elk Point area."

The drilling program involves 14 infill wells on 20 acre spacing and 10 delineation wells on 40 acre spacing. Production from the wells will commence prior to year end and will be processed through the pilot project's existing cleaning facility.

Amoco Canada has a 100 percent working interest in the Elk Point project.

Fire Chief For A Day...

Elk Point Elementary School student Kirk Rath is congratulated by Elk Point Volunteer Fire Department representative Tad Reed on his win of the 'Fire Chief For A Day' contest run at the school during Fire Prevention Week. To enter, a student had to submit an escape route plan of his or her home. The Grade 3 student was delighted with his prize of a Fire Department cap and his ride in the fire truck en route to lunch courtesy of the Fire Department.

Zenko back on County Council

John Zenko is back on St. Paul County Council after a three year absence, with a 193 to 170 vote win over his closest opponent, Gordon Kuhn, in the Division 2 contest. A third candidate, Franklin Wolters, captured 41 votes.

A large crowd of friends, neighbors and family was on hand to welcome Zenko when he returned home after the 11:15 p.m. announcement of his victory. They chanted 'For He's A Jolly Good Fellow' and gave three rousing cheers as he entered. Zenko declared himself rendered 'speechless' by the welcome, and thanked his supporters for their part in his election. He urged all to bring forth their concerns in the very near future so that these can be brought to the attention of Council without delay.

Zenko represented Division 2 from 1974 until 1986, when he lost out to John Hutton. Hutton did not seek a second term.

New faces on Hospital Board

There will be at least four new faces around the table when Elk Point Municipal Hospital Board holds their next meeting, with only one of three local incumbents re-elected in Monday's general election, and a fourth incumbent returned by acclamation in the County of Two Hills.

Former Hospital Board Chairman Tom Belsheim did not seek re-election for his Ward 1 seat, which he has held for the past 44 years. His successor as representative for that area will be Douglas Adamson of Tullibly Lake, who won by acclamation in the County of Vermilion River election.

Marvin Bjornstad was returned as the representative of Ward 2 with a landslide 236 to 57 vote victory over first-time opponent George Sanders.

In Ward 3, 24-year-old John Wozniak Jr. tallied 170 votes as opposed to Doug Millar's 89 to take the seat left vacant by the death of Walter Pilisko earlier this year.

Ward 4 will be represented by Craig Campbell, who tallied 85 votes to win over incumbent Mike Kadutski with 37 votes.

Ward 5, which is located in the County of Two Hills, will again be represented by John Mohoyluk, who was returned by acclamation in that County's election.

Orest Capjack will represent the Town of Elk Point on the Hospital Board. He received a decisive 305 votes as compared to 86 for incumbent John Williams, who has served two terms as the Ward 7 representative.

No word has yet been received regarding the Board representative for Ward 6, which is located in the Municipal District of Bonnyville.

Council studying new services centre

A feasibility study into the need for a new Community Services Centre is now underway, with two surveys being circulated. The first is going to user groups who may wish to locate in the new building, while the second is being distributed to every third household in the community to determine if Elk Point requires a new community facility. Once the results of the surveys are tabulated, an open house will be held to acquaint the people of Elk Point with the outcome. Plans are also underway for the study consultant to approach the County of St. Paul regarding the availability of land for this type of project. An application under the Business Initiatives of Alberta Communities Program for 50 percent of the funding of the marketing study was approved by Council, who also appointed Administrator Pat Vincent to the CSC Feasibility Study Steering Committee, where he will serve as secretary.

TOURISM

Council endorsed an application for Community Tourism Action Program funding for development of a park to complement the historical mural. A grant of $20,000 has been requested by the Elk Point Historical Society to help finance the project.

Participation in the new Lakeland Tourist Association publication, 'Discover Lakeland,' was discussed by Council. The cost will be $700 for a full page, which the Town will ask the Chamber of Commerce to share on a 50-50 basis. It was felt that inclusion in the publication will promote tourism and help to market the community.

LIBRARY SYSTEM

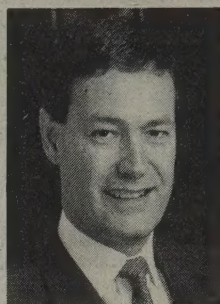

The decision to enter into the Northern Lights Library System was not an easy one for Council, who had given the bylaw approving the agreement first reading at their last meeting. Considerable discussion of the pros and cons of joining the System was undertaken before second and third readings were given Tuesday night. A recorded vote was taken on each motion, with Councillors Stepaniuk and Shmyr against the bylaw, and Councillors Schuhmacher and Frankiw and Mayor Kleeberger in favor in both cases. Stepaniuk and Shmyr both felt that Elk Point was unlikely to be successful in a bid to locate the system headquarters here, and if this were the case, Elk Point would be putting money into the system without getting anything out.

However, Council agreed that a bid for the headquarters should be made, and made well. A consultant will be engaged to prepare a polished proposal for submission to the system's interim board before the October 20 deadline. Councillors Frankiw and Schuhmacher were appointed to an ad hoc committee to work with the consultant on the proposal, which will list suitable temporary facilities, vacant land which would be available for location of a permanent facility, and other factors which would enter into decisions regarding the headquarters site. It was felt that the headquarters would be a great asset to Elk Point, as well as a 'clean industry' which would provide jobs without harming the environment in any way.

The meeting was drawn to a close with Councillors Shmyr and Stepaniuk making a joint motion for adjournment. Mayor Kleeberger expressed his personal thanks to the two retiring Councillors for their services during the term, and congratulated Stepaniuk on his new designation as a senior citizen, which he reached recently.

New director for Recreation Office

A new Recreation Director has joined the Town of Elk Point staff, for a three month stint which may last until the proposed merging of the Recreation and Family and Community Support Services departments is undertaken.

Stephen Montgomery and his wife are newcomers to the Elk Point area, where they have purchased a picturesque log home on the shore of Hook Lake, west of Elk Point. Montgomery has a background in recreation administration, in which he graduated from the University of Alberta in 1983. Since then, he has been a freelance outdoor education instructor and consultant, managed fitness and recreation programs at the 'Y in Edmonton, and has served as a planning consultant with a variety of groups.

Montgomery's three months with the Town of Elk Point will be busy ones. He is presently working on a development plan, timeline and budget for the expansion of facilities at the recreation land under the Municipal Tourism and Recreation Areas program, and is also involved in the Community Services Centre feasibility study, where he will tabulate the information from the surveys sent out last week to determine the recreational wants and needs of the community.

At the same time, Montgomery is planning for recreational activities in the immediate future. He has had requests for another swimming lesson program, such as was held last year, and for a National Coaching Certification Program Level 2 Theory Clinic. If sufficient interest is shown in the swimming program, in which the participants are transported to St. Paul four days per week for the duration of the lessons, this could start on November 13. A driver for the Elks Van is also required for this program.

The Coaching Clinic would be held early in the new year, and is of a generic nature for the coaches of all sports.

Further information on either the swimming program or the coaching clinic can be obtained by phoning the Rec Office at 724-4409, or leave a message at the Town Office, 724-3810.

One of Montgomery's personal interests is instructing outdoor activities such as navigation, survival, cross-country skiing or canoeing, and he would be pleased to hear from anyone interested in learning more about those ways of enjoying the outdoors.

Cooperation is the key

October 15 to 21 is Co-op Week across Canada.

What does the term co-op mean to you? Is it just the name of the store where you head once a week to do your grocery shopping, or the logo you see on taxis when you go to the city? Both of these are co-op ventures, but co-operatives are much more widely spread than that.

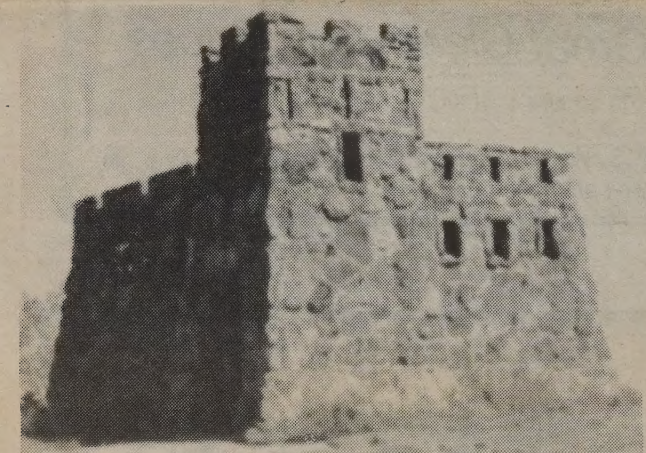

Co-operative activities have been successfully underway since the early 1800s. One such operation was the Rochdale Co-operative in England that started a few days before Christmas in 1844 and is still serving its members 145 years later. This co-operative is credited with defining the basic principles which set co-operatives apart from other forms of businesses.

Along with the local grocery store which serves our needs, and its 'big sister' operations including dry goods, lumber and farm supplies in St. Paul, our community boasts involvement with two member-owned grain company co-operatives, and a member-owned fuel supply store. Other communities may have co-operative feed mills, co-operative credit unions and trust companies, co-operative insurance companies, and the aforementioned co-operative taxi companies.

All of these co-operatives were brought into existence to serve the common need which existed among a group of people, who decided to band together and form a type of company to be governed by its members, and which in turn would serve the needs of those members in the most economical and efficient way possible. In most cases, the founding members put up the funds or security to get the business underway, and directed its operation, if not actually sharing the work until sufficient profit could be made to hire other workers. At such time as the business made a profit, the decision often was to expand the operation rather than to pay the profit back in the form of a member dividend. This helped the business to grow even further.

Behind the co-op concept is the spirit of working together to satisfy a common need, and of sharing the load to bring forth great accomplishments. That is the spirit which has helped our country to grow and prosper. That is co-operation.

Alberta Trails - Part 3

Visit to Kansas

By Irene Magnusson

Maybe it's not fair to call my column 'Alberta Trails' when in fact I am describing a trip to Kansas, but then, it was only a visit—and here I am, firmly back on Alberta soil, wending my way over Alberta trails—and much of the joy of being 'here' is knowing what is over 'there.' (Wherever 'there' is.)

True to his word, our brother Eddy took us to visit the Beechcraft Plant. After obtaining the required security check, and permission, we proceeded, following Eddy, asking him dozens of questions, mostly ignored by the few dozen workers we encountered, and pleased we weren't there on a week day when there would have been hundreds of bodies seeing about. We went past bits and parts of aircraft in production, mostly being made on a trolley or carrier of some sort, presumably so all could be trundled off to the assembly section, to be joined together into a flying machine at the given time.

After wandering and listening through two large construction buildings, we came in the end to some 'almost' finished planes, which we went into and looked around. As I mentioned earlier, these are smallish, but fairly fancy planes, carrying possibly ten or twelve persons, used, Ed said, mainly by business parties, and so arranged that they could hold meetings, or whatever, as they travelled, but in comfort.

We did not go into the 'secure' area, where the new plane Eddy is working on was in progress. These are kept very secret, until the unveiling, to prevent industrial espionage, and also some are of a military nature, made for the armed forces. The last such plane, taking over two years to design and perfect, was now in operation, and we were accidentally treated to a very good view of it, as someone was moving it around on the airstrip as we watched, and it taxied up in front of us, parked and sat there for a few minutes while we had a good look—and took a few pictures. This odd—and very efficient, Ed says—little craft is called a 'Starship,' and has unusual turned-up-at-the-end wings.

We wound up our tour, returned home for lunch, then went out to a Farmers' Market, where a block of the street was encircled with stalls of all sorts of articles for sale. There were books, clothing, jewellery, crafts, vegetables and fruit. A man was selling jars of sunflower seeds, others had house plants, baked goods, snack foods, etc., etc..

We wandered and looked, and the day grew very warm, so we didn't linger overlong. A few knick-knacks found their way into our hands.

We were all glad to rest a bit, at home, before we went off to a restaurant for our Mexican food supper. This is not a diet I would thrive on, as some of it was unreasonably hot, but otherwise quite good, and we all got full before we came to the Fried Ice Cream, which the waiter assured me was very good, and I promised I'd go back another day to taste it—but I didn't. (So much for promises from Canadians!)

To wear off our over-fill of Mexican food, we walked several blocks to rent some movies, which we watched one of before falling asleep in our chairs.

Eddy and Shirley invited us to their church next day, which was very nice, then to lunch at a nearby cafe. On the way home we saw an 'Estate Sale' sign, which we heeded, and wandered through a houseful of furniture and odds and ends—where I bought another small pitcher for my collection for one US dollar. The rest of that day we visited, Ed barbecued, and we ended with watching the other movie. A sunny, warm day.

Next, a day spent in loafing, shopping and just wandering around, it being very warm and sunny. We took our film to the drugstore for processing, then on to a series of shops, where I spent some time noticing the new styles, not my usual behavior. The main items of 'newness' were numerous vests, made of almost anything, but predominately worn-out looking denim, all these plastered with beads, embroidery, buttons, feathers, chains, etc., etc., any leftovers they had lying around they sewed them on. A few were of brocade, which were rather nice, some of leather, some satin. Otherwise, the styles were colorful, bright, and much the same as shown in the stores here.

Our next excursion was a jaunt to Lindsborg, a determinedly Swedish town, where they make, display and sell anything and everything that is Swedish. Their motto or logo is a wooden horse, painted bright colors, called a Dala Horse (Dalahäst). This is a long-used symbol, sometimes one is placed at the entry to their homes, and they are toys and ornaments.

We explored an art gallery here, visited several shops, and later, a museum, where many wild animals, birds and snakes were displayed (stuffed, of course), as well as plenty of the old tools, furnishings and housewares of another day. Adjacent to the museum is an old mill, three or four stories high, complete with its old machinery. There were signs to tell us what each piece did, but surely it would take a genius to run those many complicated bits of ancient gear-ery.

Wandering through the maze of rollers, pulleys and watchamacallits, we came out to a green, with a path leading down to the little river, which in its time powered the hulking mass of machinery. By the gate, an odd tree grew, twin-trunked, with a branch growing from one into the other, fully joined. Nearby were other buildings to explore and a steam train engine sat on a track, among them.

Lindsborg is about 60 miles from Wichita, and a few miles beyond are the Coronado Heights, one of a series of little mountains, where the Spanish explorer, Francisco de Coronado is said to have spent some time back in 1541 or thereabouts. It would be an interesting place to spend some time. We drove to the top of the hill, where a tower of the colorful rocks had been built, long ago, and recently reinforced, and a few fireplaces built, with stone picnic benches for the hardy. A magnificent view of the lovely countryside rewarded us.

At a small crossroads shop, we bought fresh bread and a pie. I enjoyed a sign: 'No Smoking; anyone caught smoking on the premises will be hung by the toenails and pummeled into unconsciousness with an organic carrot.' The shop also sold organically produced vegetables, grown by Mennonites.

We drove on another 30 or so miles, to Brookville, where we had supper at their hotel. The hotel in this village serves all food on Blue Willow china, no menu, since only fried chicken, biscuits and other soul-satisfying foods, such as mashed potatoes and gravy, coleslaw and corn are served, ending with homemade ice cream. De-e-licious.

This small, old-fashioned hotel claims to have been serving since 1890—and I believe them.

We got home around nine p.m. I was tired from this active day, but thoroughly enjoyed it. One could get used to this hectic life of a tourist—if one could hold up to it. More next week.

Letter to the Editor

For Thomas and Christopher

Dear Community,

I think we fell into the 'somebody else will surely help, so I won't' syndrome. I'm referring to Thomas Kondla's article in which he shared his private pain of loving his son Christopher.

I would like to share my story with you. I first met Thomas and Christopher on March 9, 1989 when I applied for a job as a Teacher's Assistant. I had thought the job would be working regular school hours and I was most

Love hopeth all things

Dear Thomas Kondla:

I read with great interest your article in the Lakeland Review and the St. Paul Journal titled "When Love Is Not Enough".

You point out three things which together make a near impossible solution. You are a single father, you have a shift work job, and you have a quadriplegic child.

You have very aptly pointed out to us the demands on your life and how impossible it is for you to continue like this as you have no free time to do the things that you desire to do. You ask for suggestions. Thomas, for your sake and your sons sake, your first consideration is to place him in an institution where there is someone on duty twenty-four hours a day. They will take care of him, feed him, and give him the care and therapy that he needs. If he is with other handicapped children, it is possible that he can have some communication with them.

On your days off you can go and visit him and even bring him home. Have you ever considered placing him in an institution and getting a job in that place? You might take a nursing or orderly course. You did not once mention putting your son in an institution and I wonder if you are against such a move. Have you ever considered placing him in the Elk Point hospital?

You state that he will be going to school where a teachers aide will work with him during school hours. I know the St. Paul County wants to help and has accepted him.

By every stretch of my imagination, I cannot understand why this four-year-old child with no controlled use of his muscles, with no developed way to communicate, and with no visual awareness, should end up in a school system at this stage of his life. Will he be put on the school bus? Will his teacher turn nurse and feed and change him?

When he comes home from school, the unending pressures will still be on you, straining physical, emotional and mental capabilities to their limit.

Your second option was mentioned by you in your article, to quit your job and give full attention to your son. If you insist on keeping your son with you then for your own health's sake you must quit this shift work job and you must do it very soon.

There are many things that you can do out of your home. You are still young and could take up one of a number of trades. How about accounting, woodworking, leather tooling, small appliance repair, T.V. repair, newspaper correspondent, picture painting, etc., etc.?

You live in a small community and although there are those who do babysitting, the great majority do not have the special training needed to look after a child in your son's condition.

You asked what we would do in your situation and I have pointed out what I would do, hard as it might be for me to make the decision.

In speaking to people about your plight, we agree that you cannot go on as you have been and our hearts go out to you.

Your friend,

excited, as my husband and I had just purchased a property near Elk Point; we had planned to move here, jobs or not. As it turned out, I was told the hours would be irregular. An in-home program was to be provided for Christopher while his dad was at work. If I had been asked to work 100 hours a week, I probably would have, because when I looked at Christopher lying in his father's arms, a big smile came to his face and it was 'love at first sight.' Anyone who knows Christopher will tell you about his 'winning smile.'

Over the past seven months I have had the privilege of getting to know Christopher intimately. He is a loving, playful, happy-go-lucky child who thrives on attention and affection. Christopher is also hardworking and determined, a trait I am sure he has inherited from his father. I have watched this little guy grunt and groan and finally give in to exhaustion as he tries to push on his little arms and legs that aren't yet strong enough to carry the weight of his trunk which lacks muscle tone.

Christopher has learned many things over the past seven months.

One of which is holding his cup and bringing it to his mouth while drinking. He needs help with this task, but is progressing nicely. Christopher is visually impaired, but recognizes people and responds when asked to do something, such as turn to one side or the other. For most children, this is normal of course, but for Christopher, it is a miracle. Christopher's

Heaven's very special child

A meeting was held quite far from earth

'It's time again for another birth,'
Said the angels to the Lord above.

'This special child will need much love.

His progress may seem very slow,
Accomplishments he may not show
An he'll require extra care
From folks he meets down there.
He may not run or laugh or play;
His thoughts may seem quite far away.

In many ways he won't adapt,
And he'll be known as handicapped.
So let's be careful where he's sent,
We want his life to be content, mom and dad were once told that he had no potential for development. Nothing could be further from the truth. There are lots of special ways about Christopher; special ways he communicates, shares his likes and dislikes, that only a few lucky people have gotten to know. The children in the Elk Point ECS class are just beginning to know. Christopher is now

Please Lord, find parents who Will do a special job for you.

They will not realize right away
The leading role they're asked to play

But with this child sent from above
Comes stronger faith and richer love

And soon they'll know the privilege
Given

In caring from this gift from Heaven.

Their precious charge so meek and mild

attending school two mornings a week thanks to the insight of our county school system.

Christopher is not a sickly child. In fact, he is healthier than many children I have known. In the last seven months he has had one cold and a bout of homesickness when his dad took 3 days off to go to the mountains last summer. The rest of the time Christopher has been rearing to go, ready to try any new challenge presented to him. Christopher is a 'fighter.'

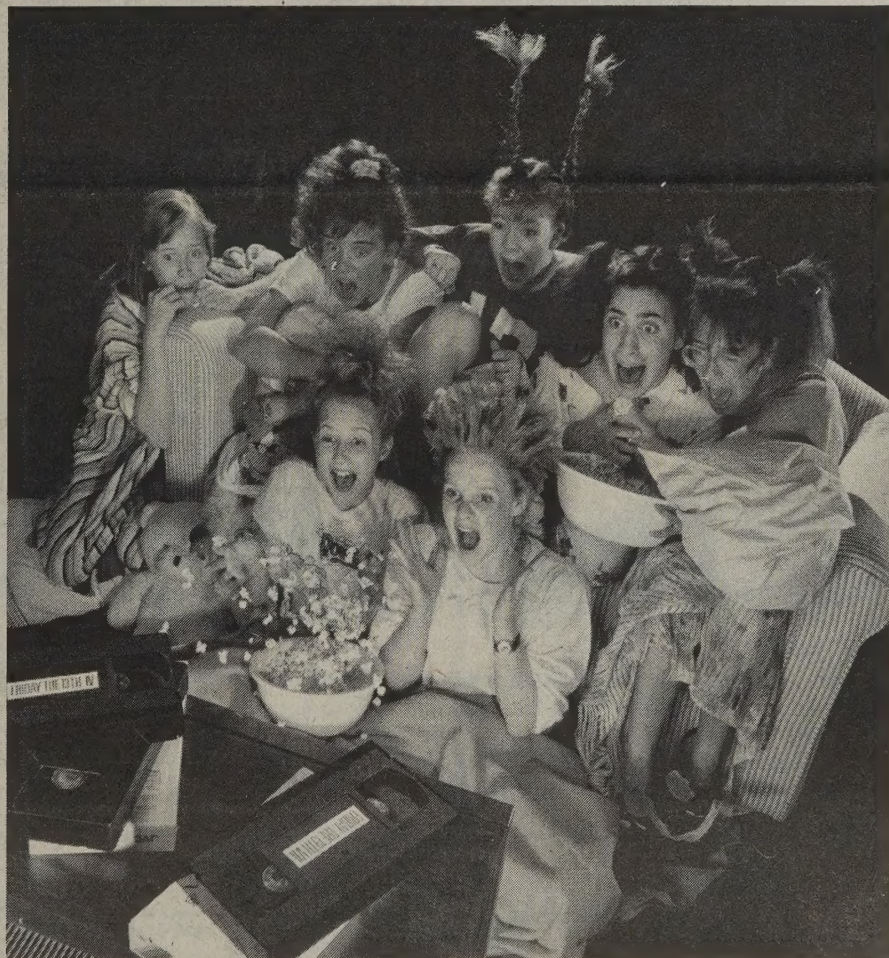

In a way this is my tribute to Christopher as I'll be leaving my position as his Teacher's Assistant to take on a new job as a Family School Consultant, where I will be advocating for services for him.

I hope this letter will encourage someone in our community to pick up the phone and offer Thomas some relief. My life has been enriched because of Christopher, I know yours will be too.

Thank you for taking the time to read my story.

AT THE GIRLS' ALL-NIGHT SLUMBER PARTY, THEY WATCHED "FRIDAY THE 13th," PARTS 1 TO 6, FOR ONLY 12¢

ELECTRICITY: A HORRIFICALLY GOOD BARGAIN!

When you've got both your TV and VCR on, they're costing you just over one cent an hour to run. That's all.

So whether you're watching the complete "Friday the 13th," or old Fred Astaire/Ginger Rogers musicals, it'll only cost you a few pennies.

Of course, some modern conveniences cost a little more.

A 700-watt microwave will set you back four cents an hour - on the other hand, you can microwave a lot in an hour! And a 1,000-watt electric corn popper - just the thing for an all-night slumber party - costs six cents an hour to operate.

In a day and age when the cost of just about everything seems so high, electricity is still a great bargain.

Fair board wind-up

By Irene Magnusson

A supper meeting of the Elk Point and District Agricultural Society Fair Board was held Monday evening, October 2, in the Empress Cafe dining room. The purpose being to hear reports of the fall Fair, and suggestions for the coming year, it was nice to see a good turnout. Margaret Modin, who has been chairman of the group for many years, has asked to step down, and so has brought forward a new prospect to take over her job in the coming year.

Verona Lee Flanders has agreed to take on the job, with the stipulation that if it is too much for her, another person will be drafted. The group expressed confidence in her ability. Modin chaired the Monday meeting. Reports were heard from all convenors of the different sections, with recommendations for changes in the coming year. Overall, the number of entries was down, due to several causes, chiefly the weather and hail in the week preceding the Fair.

Total entries were listed as 875, offered in competition. Cash prizes awarded were less than half of the offering. Lowest entries were in the Creative Writing section, followed closely by Grains and Grasses, while the Arts, Crafts and Hobbies, Knitting, Crocheting and Weaving, and Sewing received the highest entries. However, that is misleading, as that is really three sections, so the single individual section receiving the most entries was probably Photography, with 131 entries. The combined Junior sections did very well, also.

Various changes to the Fair Catalogue were suggested, and these will be incorporated in next year's book. Watch for explanations as these are worked out.

Margaret Modin had words of praise for Sharon Kuhn, who has acted as Secretary for the group for some time, and thanked her for the good work. Verona Lee Flanders made a presentation of 'two bits' (but we won't say of what) to John Bennett for each of the many steps he carried equipment, while setting up for the Fair.

Mrs. Flanders then presented Margaret and Lawrence Modin with a lovely bouquet of flowers, in appreciation from all members, for their many years of faithful work for the betterment and smooth running of the Elk Point Fair.

In closing, the group look forward to a bigger and better Fair in 1990, (the date is August 17 and 18) and wish to remind you, the exhibitors, that now is not too soon to start working toward entries you will show then. Watch for updates through the winter.

Centennial League Folds

Elks join Sask-Alta

The 22 year old Centennial Hockey League was pronounced dead from a lack of participation on Monday night, but Elk Point Elks went to the funeral with an acceptance in the Sask-Alta Hockey League to soften the blow.

The Centennial League started plans for the year with four teams: long-time league members Cold Lake Packers, Bonnyville Pontiacs and Elk Point Elks, plus Lac La Biche

Clippers, former league members who were to replace the Goodfish Lake Flames. Both Cold Lake and Elk Point were reluctant to go with a four-team league again this year, and Cold Lake subsequently decided to pull out. Unable to operate with only three teams, the Centennial League met in Elk Point Monday night to wind up operations.

The shaky situation of the Centennial League had already prompted the Elks to make application to the Sask-Alta League, with their membership in the latter group accepted on a one-year trial basis at a special meeting Monday night. The Sask-Alta League consists of teams from Dewberry, Marwayne, Kitscoty, Paradise Valley, Edgerton, Neilburg and Elk Point, with a possibility of two more teams from Hillmond and Onion Lake joining the action. Further information regarding the game schedule will be announced after the league meets October 29.

The Elks hit the ice last night for their first practice. More players would still be welcome, and are invited to phone Tim Kubista at 724-2652, Vic Stepa at 724-3926 or Del Smith at 724-2145.

What's new at the library?

One of the biggest concerns parents have, say experts, is how to foster a love of reading and how to make sure the habit stays with their children through their school years and into adulthood.

"Parents are always asking how they can get their children to READ. The answer, is for parents to start reading to children almost from infancy, to set a good example by reading extensively themselves, to introduce children to the library at a young age, to continue reading to them even after they have learned to read, and to avoid criticizing their choices of reading material."

Studies of children with varied backgrounds who learned to read easily and remained good readers have found that they were all read to regularly from early childhood.

Reluctant readers tended to come from homes where books were not in evidence, where they were not read to and where television was prominent in the home.

"It's never too early to start reading to children. Reading aloud shouldn't stop when children go off to school and begin to learn to read themselves. Reading aloud continues to help children's skills even after they have begun to read."

Four new music cassettes in the library's music cassette section are: "Blue Hawaii" by Elvis Presley; Kathleen Battle and Placido Domingo - "Live in Tokyo 1988"; Rock and Roll Hall of Fame, Volume IV - "Sixteen Candles" and Volume VIII - "Summer in the City".

NEW BOOKS

"Choice Cooking", by Mark Erzi Miller - this cookbook will appeal to everyone who wants to eat well, be healthy, and enjoy their food. It also enables diabetics to use the recipes by including nutrient and energy values with each other.

"Visions of Glory" and "Alone", two books in the "Last Lion" collection, about the life of Winston Spencer Churchill, by William Manchester. It is written, "that these are the pinnacle of biography", written in a style and on a scale Churchill himself would have applauded.

Investiture for Beavers, Cubs

Parents Lend A Hand...

Charlene Nixon, Ian Huffman and Tad Reed assist in the investiture ceremony for their sons Kenny, Matt and Rhody. District Commissioner Roxanne Ringuette salutes the new Beavers while Spencer Easthope (out of camera range) holds the Beaver flag.

New Leaders...

Cubs Invested...

Christopher Hancock, Aaron Young and Dustan Valleau were welcomed into the Elk Point Cub pack by District Commissioner Ringuette.

Three Beavers, three Wolf Cubs and three new leaders were invested into the Elk Point Scouting Association last Wednesday, with District Scouting Commissioner Roxanne Ringuette, Mayor Bruce Kleeberger, and Lions Club representative Charlie Mahon on hand to participate in the ceremonies.

The evening opened with a prayer by Scout Irwin Easthope, and welcoming address by Group Committee Chairperson Cindy Nelson.

Beaver Leader Charlene Nixon, Cub Leader Loranna Blazenko and Assistant Cub Leader Tom Valleau were installed by the District Commissioner, who welcomed the three to the brotherhood of Scouting.

The three new Beavers, Rhody Reed, Kenny Nixon and Matt Huffman, were accompanied by their parents as they came up to recite the Beaver promise, and be given their scarves. The fourth member of the Beaver dam, Spencer Easthope, who was invested last year, held the Beaver flag during the ceremony. Cub Matthew Nixon, who helps with the Beavers and is known as 'Keo,' was given a special grey scarf which signifies his involvement with that group.

Following a song by the Beavers and their leader, former Beaver Aaron Young ceremonially 'swam up' to the Cub pack, where he was joined by Christopher Hancock and Dustan Valleau to be invested into the pack. They were welcomed by the balance of the Cubs, Michael Reed, Jamie Yake, Matthew Nixon and Regan Nelson.

One Scout was also scheduled for investiture, but was unable to be on hand for the ceremony. William Faithful will be joining Irwin Easthope, Darren Pilisko and Cameron Zarowny in the Scout troop led by Pat Johnson.

Grant Nixon is the Many Lakes District President for this year, while Diane Young is the Group Committee Treasurer, Brenda Reed is in charge of supplies, Ian Huffman and Ed Zarowny make up the Camping Committee, and Alice Yake, Karen Reed and Deanna Easthope are the Phoning Committee.

The evening continued with a hilarious skit by the Scouts, and a lively action song led by the District Commissioner, before refreshments were served to the boys and their guests.

Crop report

In the final crop report for the 1989 season, Elk Point Alberta Wheat Pool manager Ed Palmer says that harvest has been completed and that fall work is now in progress, with application of granular herbicide just starting.

Average yields per acre were estimated at 953 kg of hard red spring wheat, 1157 kg of oats, 1306 kg of barley, 483 kg of fall rye and 408 kg of canola. Eighty five percent of the wheat crop graded 3 CWRS, with the balance grading feed. Sixty five percent of the barley was rated at 1 CW, with the rest 2 CW, while 95 percent of canola graded 1 Canada and only 5 percent 2 Canada.
